Costello calls for reform

By Bob Slate
 Staff writer

After winning re-election easily, U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello issued a call for campaign finance reform. Costello was an easy and early winner Tuesday in his re-election bid against Tamms Village Trustee Shapley Hunter in the 12th Congressional District.

It was the sixth consecutive victory for Costello, 47, a Democrat and former St. Clair County Board chairman. On Wednesday, Costello said campaign finance reform should be the first priority of the 105th Congress.

"It is clear that from the presidential to the congressional level, people are sick and tired of the constant questions over how American political campaigns were financed through this election cycle," Costello said.

He is calling for House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., and Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., to immediately appoint a non-partisan federal commission to recommend changes to the current system. He suggested that retiring elected officials, such as former Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and retiring Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., be included on the commission because they no longer have anything to gain or lose by changes to the system.

Campaign finance reform is not a new issue to Costello, who has introduced legislation that would eliminate contributions from political action committees (PACs), eliminate "soft" money from parties in congressional races and place limits on the total amount of money a candidate may spend on a campaign.

Costello said he would re-introduce the legislation on the first day of the 105th Congress.

Allan Chong, garrison commander at the Price Support Center, will be the guest speaker. Music will be provided by Jeff Graver of "Jeff & Lori" with Music Magic. Colors and organizational flags will be presented by American Legion Post 113 and Auxiliary, Sons of the American Legion Squadron No. 113, Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary Chapter No. 53, AMVETS Post No. 51 and Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1300 and Auxiliary, AMVETS Post No. 204 and Auxiliary, VFW Post No. 7451 and Auxiliary, and American Legion Post No. 307 and Auxiliary. ## Council approves yard waste plan

By Bob Slate
 Staff writer

Heavy rains last week teamed up with hundreds of thousands of fallen leaves to clog catch basins in Granite City, resulting in flooded streets.

But city residents will soon have a permanent outlet to dispose of leaves as well as grass clippings and brush. The Granite City Council approved siting Wednesday night for a permanent yard waste drop-off facility to be located off 25th Street between Center Street and the Norfolk and Southern railroad tracks.

The council voted 12-1 to approve the proposal submitted by Street Superintendent Jerry Lakin. Lakin proposed the facility because landfills will no longer accept yard waste without charge and because burning the waste is illegal in the city.

A public hearing on the matter was conducted in August. About 100 nearby residents expressed opposition to the plan during a 30-day public comment period that ended in September.

Hearing officer George Filcoff recommended approval of the plan last month. The council had until Nov. 16 to take action on the proposal.

"We need this site. We need some place for the citizens to take these materials so the street department can get them out of town."

— Craig Tarpoff
 Alderman

The facility is to be paved and will be surrounded by a fence, berms and trees to protect nearby homes. A tub grinder will mulch the yard waste, which will then be taken to another site for disposal or composting. The council approved the siting after adding three conditions to the plan: that the tub grinder may be omitted from the plan if it is deemed unnecessary; that all yard waste is removed from the facility within 120 hours — or sooner if odors are present; and that the mayor is authorized to take whatever action deemed necessary to maintain the facility to comply with the conditions of the siting.

Council backs product boycott

By Bob Slate
 Staff writer

Municipal government officials must sometimes walk a fine line between assisting local companies and supporting workers.

That was the case in Granite City Wednesday, when the City Council was asked to adopt a resolution supporting a boycott of Bridgestone and Firestone tires until a labor dispute between the company and its workers is settled.

The resolution was adopted by an 8-2 vote, with three other aldermen voting "present."

While some aldermen were unwavering in their support of workers' rights, others said the council has no business in the fight and a boycott would hurt local businesses who have no control over the labor dispute.

George Machino, president of the Greater Madison County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, asked city, village, township, county and state governmental bodies to adopt the resolution and show support of United Rubber Workers, who have been refused permission to return to work at Bridgestone/Firestone plants in Illinois, Ohio and Oklahoma following a 10-month strike that

Rams help salvage wet Newsboys day

The St. Louis Rams are coming to the rescue of the children's charities that depend on Old Newsboys Day funding.

With the steady, often heavy, rains on Thursday, the annual Old Newsboys Day volunteer effort was a washout in many areas. As a result, sales of the special edition of the Suburban Journal were down. Since every dollar collected on Old Newsboys Day is distributed to local children's charities, the rain was especially unwelcome.

In conjunction with the Rams, volunteers will be at (See NEWSBOYS, Page 7A)

Judge planning return to work

Madison County Associate Circuit Judge Ann Callis-Rongey is ready to return to work after spending the bulk of the past three months in hiding for fear of murder suspect Kelly L. McGinnis.

"I'm grateful to have my life back and for my children to have their lives back," Callis-Rongey said in a statement read late Wednesday by her father, Granite City lawyer Lance Callis.

"I hope to return to work as soon as possible, hopefully Friday morning," she said. Callis-Rongey apparently planned to discuss returning to work with Chief Judge Nicholas Byron today.

"I'm grateful to the law enforcement authorities for all their support."

Callis-Rongey had been on leave of absence while authorities searched for McGinnis, the (See JUDGE, Page 2A)

McGinnis arraigned in killing

GREENVILLE — Jeers and cheers alike greeted Kelly McGinnis as he emerged from a squad car in front of Bond County Courthouse, where he was arraigned Thursday on a charge of first-degree murder.

"Way to go, Kelly!" shouted Lyshunda Morris, 16, who had been dismissed early from Greenville High School for report card day.

An older woman down the block shouted, "I hope you fry, McGinnis!"

It was McGinnis' first documented appearance in his hometown since he allegedly gunned down City Attorney Thomas Meyer Aug. 12.

A cold thin rain fell on a crowd of about 200 high school students and adults waiting across the street from the small rural courthouse.

McGinnis did not respond to shouted questions about where he had been during his flight from justice. Except for orange prison garb, he looked similar to wanted posters that had hung in every public place in the region for 86 days.

McGinnis was represented during the arraignment by Clayton attorney Michael S. Ghidina, who later said he had not been formally retained but had agreed to appear initially.

Circuit Judge John L. DeLaurenti told McGinnis during the arraignment that, as a judge, he had been good friends with Meyer.

"I feel I can be fair, but I wanted you to know," DeLaurenti said. "I gave a eulogy at (Meyer's) memorial."

DeLaurenti set no bond for McGinnis. He said a preliminary hearing would be set in the coming weeks.

McGinnis, 40, is believed to have killed Meyer because the attorney represented McGinnis' ex-wife in their divorce this past spring.

Associate Circuit Judge Ann Callis-Rongey had awarded custody of McGinnis' two children to the mother over McGinnis' objection.

McGinnis was arrested Wednesday night in Vandalia after shooting up the offices of his divorce attorney, Larry LeFevre. He had apparently been aiming for LeFevre, who was not at work.

McGinnis had walked into LeFevre's law office through the back door about 4:25 p.m. Wednesday. Unseen by the seven employees, he walked upstairs, shotgun in hand, to LeFevre's office and opened fire.

LeFevre wasn't in the building. McGinnis chose to spare his workers, calmly walking down the back steps and leaving through the door in which he entered.

"He came here with one thing in mind. He's a monster," employee Diane Chappel said.

On Thursday, about 40 people, including the staff of LeFevre's law offices in Vandalia, packed the small courtroom for McGinnis' arraignment.

"We wanted to make sure he was in jail," receptionist Betty Brown said.

But some students saw the episode differently. Morris, her friend Norma Whitford, 18, and many others said they had been thrilled with following the manhunt.

"I think it's wrong what he did, and I'm happy they got him, but he made such a fool of the cops for so long. It was just fun to watch," Morris said.

Arrest gets mixed reactions

GREENVILLE — Some residents said they had mixed emotions about the arrest Wednesday of murder suspect Kelly L. McGinnis.

McGinnis is accused of shooting Greenville City Attorney Thomas Meyer Aug. 12. He had been a fugitive from justice since, although several sightings were reported.

McGinnis, who is believed to have shot Meyer in anger over a bitter divorce settlement, had become somewhat of a folk hero amongst people who felt he was a victim of the justice system.

Signs of support had periodically sprung up in yards around Greenville, and "Go Kelly Go" bumper stickers were seen on vehicles.

Janie McCario of Greenville, assistant manager of the Moto-Mat service station on Illinois Route 127, said she heard varying views on the case from customers Wednesday evening.

"People have been coming in all night. There's mixed reaction," she said. "I'm kind of glad (for the arrest) because I have a daughter in school. Justice needs to be served."

She noted that McGinnis does have sympathizers, however. "A lot of people who come in here think he got a raw deal," McCario said.

John Edd, 39, who said he worked with McGinnis at Carlisle Syntec in Greenville before the murder, discussed the case from a nearby tavern on Route 127 near Interstate 70.

"McGinnis is my co-worker and friend," he said. "I wish Kelly the best. Him being accused of this stuff was just as much of a shock to me as to anyone."

"I didn't know about his wife and I didn't know about his problems, but he was a good friend and a good employee."

Parking cars in yard is now illegal in city

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

There are many places to park cars, trucks and other vehicles in Granite City.

Your yard, however, is no longer an option. The City Council on Wednesday adopted an ordinance making it illegal to park motor vehicles in yards on residential lots.

"What we're trying to do is keep people from parking on lawns," City Inspector Vince Scrum said.

Specifically, the ordinance prohibits parking campers, motor homes, cars, pickup trucks and trailers in the front or side yard of residential property.

Parking such vehicles under carports, in driveways or garages, or in parking spaces that are permanently paved with concrete, rock or asphalt will not be considered a violation.

Nor will it be deemed illegal to park in a yard for less than eight hours while unloading persons or property.

Cars and trucks parked on the gravel shoulder of streets with no curbs will not be issued citations, Scrum said.

Violators can be fined up to $750 for each violation. Each day that a car or other vehicle remains illegally parked is considered a separate violation.

Mayor Ron Selph said he asked for the ordinance to protect property values and improve the aesthetic appearance of residential neighborhoods.

Scrum said cars have been parked in yards throughout the city for several reasons, including repair and maintenance, to display vehicles that are for sale, or simply because residents have no driveway.

High turnout at polls surprises Saltich

Statewide races brought out more voters than expected, but the totals still fell short of the 1992 turnout.

"We did better than I originally thought we would," said Madison County Clerk Debbie Saltich, who reported a 68 percent turnout with a total of 102,177 votes cast.

"I think a lot of the early polls for the president kept people indoors," she said. "The turnout nationwide wasn't as high as the turnout in 1992. The presidential race wasn't as exciting this year."

In 1992, 82 percent of the county's registered voters went to the polls.

"I think the state races generated the most interest this year," Saltich said. "We had a good turnout."

Saltich said she thought one of Madison County's biggest draws was the hotly contested (See TURNOUT, Page 4A)

Waste

Some of the nearby residents who expressed reservations about the plan said after Wednesday's approval that the conditions helped ease their concerns.

At least we have some assurance that it will be done right," one woman said.

Some aldermen said they were unhappy with the way a temporary facility at the site had been operated during the summer.

Muddy conditions have made it impossible to remove yard waste from the temporary drop-off site in a timely manner during certain periods. But because the permanent facility is to be paved, transportation problems should be eliminated and drainage improved in the area.

Alderman Craig Tarpoif, who represents the area in question, said the facility is needed, but must be operated in a manner that is not disruptive to residents.

Boycott

ended in May 1995. The strike was called over company demands for concessions in working conditions, pay and benefits, Machino said.

About 2,300 rubber workers were replaced by the company in early 1995, and about 700 union members remain on a recall list for future hiring when vacancies occur, Machino said.

Shortly after the strike ended, the United Rubber Workers union merged with the United Steelworkers of America.

Alderman Kim Affor said other municipal governments have adopted similar resolutions and urged its adoption.

But Alderman Craig Tarpoif said a boycott would only hurt local businesses that he is fair, have never retained on a recall list for future hiring when vacancies occur, Machino said.

But Alderman Craig Tarpoif said a boycott would only hurt local businesses that he is fair, have never retained on a recall list for future hiring when vacancies occur, Machino said.

Barney's Tire on Madison Avenue sells Bridgestone products and most pickup trucks sold at Koetting Ford on Illinois 3 have Firestone tires, Tarpoif said.

"I understand the concern," he said. "But we're dancing a fine line here and I think we're stepping over the line."

Those two businesses represent a significant portion of the city's sales tax revenue, Tarpoif added.

Aldermen Bob Page and Walter Milton agreed with Tarpoif.

Alderman Foster Frederick disagreed.

"I don't believe it is fair, have never believed it is fair and will never believe it is fair for big business to make money as the working man suffers," Frederick said.

Affor, Frederick and aldermen Casmer Skubish, Eddie Asadarian, Nick Petrillo, Lurton Pulley, Brian Fuzzessery and Alan Crider voted to adopt the resolution.

Turnout

race in the 20th District for U.S. Representative. The race pitted Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus, R-Collinsville, against State Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville.

Shimkus eked out a victory by one-third of a percent or about 1,200 votes.

Salich said she thought that early returns kept several 11th hour voters from coming to the polls.

"I hate early returns," Salich said. "I think it spoiled things for a lot of us. People saw some of those numbers and decided not to bother."

Granite City Mayor Ron Selph, chairman of the Madison County Transit District, takes the ceremonial first swing in the demolition of the vacant former Woolworth building at the corner of 19th Street and Edison Avenue. The Transit District purchased the property and plans to create additional parking space for its bus terminal located across the street.

Plans for a new Park-n-Ride lot in Granite City took a step forward with the demolition of the old Woolworth's and adjoining buildings at the intersection of 19th Street and Edison.

The new lot will be across from the Madison County Transit District's Granite City transfer center.

The demolition took place Oct. 31. By the next day, the building was down and piles of rubble were waiting to be carted off.

Construction is expected to begin soon on a 50-space lot. MCT Manager Jerry Kane said previously it would take approximately 25 days for the construction of the lot once debris are cleared.

The new lot is necessary because of the large amount of traffic at the transfer center.

Mayor Ron Selph, who also chairs the Madison County Transit District, said he was very happy to see the building come down, although others were not.

On Monday, Selph said his father, Roby Selph, came into his office and said it was "sad" to see the building go down.

"I told him it would be a lot sadder to see a derelict building catch fire and see a firefighter injured," Selph said.

"We have to look forward, not back," he added.

He said demolition of derelict buildings will enhance the downtown area and allow redevelopment.

The demolition and construction cost is expected to be about $170,000. That includes approximately $30,000 for asbestos abatement which was completed before last week's demolition.

The project is being paid for with federal Congestion Management Air Quality Funds.

The transit district purchased the property for $60,000 in September 1995.

Make your own beautiful
Foiled Ornaments
with instructions from

FRANK'S
NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

The best gifts of all are the ones that are hand-made. At least that's what someone once said. We don't know who or when, but we're in total agreement. After all, could anyone resist one of these beautiful creations? And the fact that it was specially created by you or someone in your family makes it extra special.

How about making a few for yourself while you're at it? It's easy to do, when you follow our instructions. So if you're all set to begin, here goes.

Materials needed

Note: quantities will vary, depending on how many ornaments you're making.

Six clear frosted glass ornaments
One Gold Renaissance Foil Crackle Kit
One Renaissance Foil Kit or open stock foil (gold or silver) with adhesive
Delta acrylic paints: 14K gold & Ivory
Delta crackle medium for acrylics
Delta exterior varnish-gloss
Sponge, scissors, ribbons for hangers, and a craft stick or paint brush

Golden Foiled Dots

Using a paint brush, apply adhesive in desired pattern. Optional: Pour adhesive in an envelope. Cut a very small opening in one corner of the envelope. Fold envelope, forcing adhesive toward opening. Holding back of envelope, push adhesive through hole and draw desired designs on ornament. Once adhesive has dried, apply gold renaissance foil to ornament.

Gold Foiled Textured & Cracked Ornament

Using Delta's Renaissance-Gold Foil Crackle Kit, apply adhesive heavily to outside of ornament with a sponge to create texture. Let dry. Apply gold foil to ornament. Follow directions on package, and apply Crackle Medium from kit to gold-foiled ornament. Tie ribbon in a bow at the top of ornament.

The ornaments are now ready to proudly give as gifts or hang on the tree.

Like to create a couple of different ornaments? Not a problem. Head to Frank's and pick up the "Elegant Foiled Glass Ornaments" instruction sheet. It has the instructions for these, plus two additional ornaments. And remember, it's free, as are all the other great project instructions.

Clinton wins easily

GCHS' vote mirrors nation's

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

At GCHS, it was Clinton in a landslide. While voters across the country were casting ballots Tuesday to determine the leadership of country over the next four years, the Granite City High School Social Studies Club conducted a mock presidential election in the school's cafeteria.

Clinton, of course, won the "real" election handily, garnering more electoral college votes Tuesday than he had four years ago against George Bush.

All Granite City High School students were eligible to vote in the mock election. Registration cards, which could be exchanged for ballots during lunch periods, were distributed during homeroom. Students could choose between incumbent President Bill Clinton, Republican challenger Bob Dole or Reform party candidate Ross Perot.

The results were fairly close to those of the "real" election in Madison County and nation-wide, although Perot fared much better among the students than he did with the rest of the electorate.

Clinton won easily at GCHS, garnering 585 votes — about 50 percent of the total 1,171 cast.

Perot finished a surprising second with 305 votes (26 percent) and Dole finished a close third with 281 votes (24 percent). The results were announced in the afternoon over the school's public address system.

Students who expressed opinions of the presidential candidates showed they were pretty well educated on the candidates' platforms.

Kyle Bridges, a freshman, said he voted for Perot. "He's talking about reforming our government and our taxes where we can manage them more effectively," Bridges said. "People would have more money to spend on themselves and to give to those who need it. Instead of sending tax money to useless programs, it can be spent effectively."

Senior Rachel Kulasz said she voted for Perot because "it's about time somebody other than a Democrat or a Republican had a chance."

Sophomore Hilary Martin has been impressed with Clinton's first four years in office.

"I've seen what he's done and I think he has done a good job," Martin said. "And I don't think Bob Dole should be able to tell women what they can do with their bodies."

But freshman Sarah Clark disagreed. "I voted for Dole because he's pro-life," Clark said.

Senior Steve Mathes said he admires Clinton's values.

"I was raised a Democrat and I think he represents hard-working class values," Mathes said.

Senior Kevin Davis expressed the frustration many voters felt this election season.

"I'm not sure who to vote for," Davis said. "I don't think Dole or Perot have any idea what they're talking about. But I don't like Clinton's morals."

the exits of the Trans World Dome on Sunday in an "over-time" effort to sell Old Newsboys Day editions.

"We're very happy to help. We hope Rams fans also will make the extra effort to support Old Newsboys Day on Sunday," said Bob Wallace, senior vice president of the Rams.

Dozens of Old Newsboys Day volunteers will be stationed at the dome exits with the special edition that features the results of the second annual Children's Choice Awards.

Locally, volunteers braved the harsh elements to hawk copies of the special edition of the Journal at about 20 locations in the Tri-Cities area.

Charlie Meyer has been volunteering for the effort for decades, the last 10 years through the Granite City Optimist Club.

"I think the weather kind of hurt sales," said Meyer, who stood at the intersection of 20th Street and Niedringhaus and Edison avenues at about 6 a.m. Thursday. "Maybe people didn't want to roll down their windows."

But those that did stop were generous with their donations, Meyer said. He said Optimists collected more than $200 for children's charities.

Other local groups that helped out included Shop N Save, Schnucks, Granite City and Madison-Venice Rotary clubs, ESGR, Protestant Welfare Association, Hardee's, Thomas Mortuaries, Coordinated Youth and Human Services, the cities of Granite City and Venice, Don Jones, boy scouts, Robert Stuart and Catholic Charities.

GOP to protest Garcia defeat Ballot box tampering alleged in Bradford's precinct

State Republican leaders are vowing to pursue formal complaints of ballot box shenanigans against local Democratic state representative-elect Glenn Bradford's campaign.

"We'll be filing some type of protest contesting the results of the election in the 11th District," said Mike Cys, spokesman for House Speaker Lee Daniels.

Controversy erupted in Edwardsville on election night when Bradford's hotly contested race against Republican Mario Garcia ran late because several precincts did not report until after midnight.

Garcia's campaign staff and other local Republicans claimed that all the late-reporting precincts were traditional Republican territory that voted this year for Democrat Bradford.

Bradford's win by about 1,200 votes was one of several seats recaptured by Democrats to give them a 60-58 majority in the House of Representatives next year.

Of special interest was Bradford's own Edwardsville Township Precinct 11, which has voted Republican in the past but where Bradford edged Garcia by eight votes.

On Wednesday, Bradford denied knowledge or involvement in detaining or messing with ballot boxes.

"I personally worked the 11th precinct trying to win it, and I did," he said. "My campaign had had trouble determining voter patterns in the area because it is growing so rapidly, so I don't know how the Republicans can be so sure it was supposed to be theirs."

County Clerk Debbie Saltich said there were three Republican judges at the Edwardsville Precinct 11 and two Democratic judges.

"It is not unusual for ballot boxes to come in late, even after midnight," she said.

She said 940 votes were cast in the precinct out of 1,272 registered voters, which is a high turnout.

Election judges had their hands full because of the turnout and about 70 absentee ballots that were turned in Tuesday, she said.

The Illinois Attorney General's Office is looking into the matter and conducting interviews, but an official declined to provide further information.

Attorney General spokesman Dan Curran said Thursday the office was looking into the complaints but added there were no new developments.

"There's nothing to report at this time," Curran said. "We may have something (Friday)."

"We're still considering our options," Garcia said Thursday. "We just got a call from the Attorney General's Office, and they said they are conducting a thorough investigation."

"We'll see what they come up with," he added.

Bradford would not take office until January, so the controversy could go on for months.

Some observers said it is appropriate that the controversy came in the Bradford-Garcia race, which was widely regarded as among the dirtiest campaigns waged this year.

Both candidates used a variety of ads and commercials attacking the integrity of the other.

Horoscope

Sunday, Nov. 10
Today, the moon and the sun are both stationed in sultry Scorpio, turning up the sexual intensity. You are magnetically attracted to mysterious people and pastimes. Discovery feels good, even if you are only learning about yourself. Keep true to your instincts. There is not a single problem in the world that cannot be solved with honest soul-searching now.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Healing forces are with you; a medical breakthrough may be announced. You have more room for discovery than you are allowing. Be less critical of yourself. You may pull off a miracle or two this week. Call an old friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Powerful relationships are formed that will relieve stress. A job well done is the day's major emphasis. You may start out doing the dishes and wind up repainting the kitchen. Love in the evening is playful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Work is enjoyable and quite therapeutic. Siblings and in-laws reach a rare accord. If you give up judgment and opinions, including those of yourself, more is accomplished. Romance is reaching a new stage of understanding.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You are on the upswing of a financial matter. Give in to your sweetheart. Your mate may have to leave town for family. Job worries will clear soon. Doing it yourself saves money, but make sure you meet all the requirements.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). An unlikely love affair is not going to please your family; keep it discreet until you're sure it will last. Travel is favored. Aquarians are wonderful sounding boards — have one help you prioritize. Children make you proud.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 10). You can make major gains this year. Extra time at work this month will pay off in a promotion. New jobs are found in January. The holidays are filled with love possibilities, and you may take months to decide on one. In May, a brilliant idea lights the way to your future. Be practical this summer. Your best signs for love are Sagittarius and Leo.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A neighbor motivates you to begin work on all those big chores you've been putting off. Talk with a friend one-to-one because he or she has personal endeavors lend to a sense of satisfaction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). What got broken or damaged is more easily mended than you thought. An exciting romance has you in a whirl, though this person may live far or do much traveling. Take care of household details your self.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Have the family over for informal gatherings — don't go all out, but keep it relaxed. A partner's spending habits are the source of discord. Be understanding. You can't change the negative attributes of anyone but yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). It's OK to be the one making all the major efforts for now. True love turns later in the week. A relative's health will clear up next week. Lov-ers learn to stand on their own two feet. Hesitation is natural.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Plan a trip — you will find a way to fund it. Gossip is thick but harmless. A spiritual reading gives you food for thought. Make no hasty decisions in financial matters; all the facts aren't in. Parties and meetings are a must.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Lifetime loyalties are a great support. You don't have to do everything yourself. It brings everyone together if you share duties. You can fix things but also find time for quiet meditation on goals and ideals.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Recognition from a group helps your self-esteem. An Aquarius can help you to let go of stress. A loving relationship with your partner is enhanced by sharing time with friends as a couple. A great idea may be dawning.

Trivia nights fun, challenging, prizes

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

I've been playing in trivia nights for years and I still think they're a lot of fun. For those who do not know what I am talking about, here is a brief description: A trivia night, generally, is a competition in which teams of people try to answer the most questions correctly. Prizes are awarded to the top team and, usually, to the second- and third-place finishers, at least. Teams normally consist of anywhere from six to 10 people. The questions generally are given out 10 at a time in each of 10 rounds. Sometimes the questions come in random order, but usually they are divided into categories, such as sports, television, American history and so on.

While this may sound like a dull evening to some people, there is much more to it than dryly answering questions. The questions spur conversations, reminiscences and arguments among team members. If one team member insists his answer is right and it turns out to be wrong, that person deserves to receive wisecracks from his teammates.

To have a prize-winning team, you need people with a wide range of specialties. The sports category is my bread and butter, but I can contribute on entertainment and history questions as well. You also need someone who is an expert in music, as well as someone who can handle science, literature and anything else that may be asked at the trivia night.

It is also good to have a mix of ages on your team. If all your squad members are in their 20s, it isn't likely they are going to know any big-band questions. Similarly, if your youngest player is 50, you might have a tough time answering a question about Eddie Vedder.

You'll hear people say they wouldn't want to go to a trivia night because they don't think they would be good at it. But everybody knows something. You may be the one member of your team who knows where Sportsman's Park used to be or who was the heaviest president in United States history.

Trivia nights have become the rage in the area as fundraising events for organizations and, particularly, for churches. I first started going to trivia nights in the mid-'80s in South County and have since seen them spread all around the metropolitan area. There are some trivia night events in the fall, but the big trivia night season is from January to April.

This week's trivia is a sampling of the kinds of questions asked during trivia nights.

1. (Television) What was rated as the most-watched TV show for the 1961-62 season?
2. (American history) Within three years, what year was the Bill of Rights ratified?

3. (Music) What was Billy Joel's first top 10 hit?

4. (Art) Donatello earned fame working in which art form?

5. (Science) Gregor Mendel laid the foundations for which science?

6. (Sports) Which team lost in the first Super Bowl?

7. (Movies) Which film won the first Oscar for best picture?

8. (Famous names) By what name is Richard Wayne Penniman better known?

9. (20th century) Who performed the first heart transplant?

10. (Cathall) Who was the first human shot into space?

ANSWERS: 1. "Wagon Train." 2. 1791. 3. "Just the Way You Are," which hit No. 3 in 1977. 4. Sculpture. 5. Genetics. 6. Kansas City, which lost to Green Bay. 7. "Wings," for 1927-28. 8. Rock 'n' roll singer Little Richard. 9. Dr. Christian Barnard of South Africa, in 1967. 10. Yuri Gagarin of the Soviet Union in 1961.

Crusaders fall prey to 'Coach Hyper'

In future years, when members of the Althoff High School football team recall the 1996 Class 4A state playoffs, they might well point to a 19-6 victory over Springfield Lanphier in the first round.

As witness of such, I found this game one of the better I've watched this season due to the uncertainty.

The final analysis will show a first-half, final-play pass of five yards from Jason Frierich to Justin Siegel as decisive as an extra point kick by Aaron Emig, who clinched the victory with a 38-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

However, if coach Glenn Schott and his Crusaders staff ever have time to view fully the events of their game with Lanphier at Township Stadium, I hope they pass along to game officials the ludicrous actions of the Springfield assistant who also might be remembered for wearing shorts on a very cool evening.

In a game in which Lanphier lost three fumbles and had a pass intercepted in the final quarter, an interception of an Althoff pass that nearly led to a Springfield win galled me.

Throughout the game, as is my custom, I watched more than just the action on the field. Football allows time between snaps of the ball to observe more than just a shifting line or substitution.

The object of my attention on the Springfield sideline was the most animated assistant coach I've seen since Marion Stallings for East St. Louis Senior High School. I may be accused of similar actions during soccer games I've coached, but I've never done what this dude did.

Whenever Althoff had possession of the ball, Coach Hyper (what else can I call him?) would position himself about 15 yards down the sideline and behind the Crusaders offense.

That would seem innocent enough by itself, but he also was close to 10 yards into the playing field. From that perspective he would signal to the Lanphier defense via arm movements.

As long as no official took exception, and none did, Good Ol' Hyper continued his antics, which I believe contributed to Althoff scoring just one touchdown in the game.

In the fourth quarter, as the Crusaders prepared for a pass play, Hyper directed his players back into a counter position that led to an interception and nearly a Lanphier victory.

Fortunately, on a first-and-goal from Althoff's 9-yard-line with 1 minute 27 seconds to play, Jose Cantorena intercepted a pass for the Crusaders.

Had Jose not intercepted that pass and Springfield won the game, it only would have added to the sour taste I've developed for prep football rules and their application.

Very simply, Mr. Hyper should have been warned early in the game and then ejected the next time he pulled his shenanigans.

OVERTIME: Two of the better regular season games this fall were losses for Belleville West, 26-19 to East St. Louis and 29-28 to Collinsville. In both games, pass plays made me consider current rules.

Against East Side, a last-minute touchdown completion over a West defender led to victory, and against Collinsville a fake field goal at the end of the first half that led to what was called an incomplete pass prevented a Maroons TD in an end zone corner.

My point? In high school games, why be afraid to commit pass interference, especially on crucial plays? Unlike in collegiate and pro football, where the ball is marked to the spot of the interference, it's a 15-yard penalty on the high school level.

On fouls in the end zone, it's half the distance to the goal when the line of scrimmage is from the 15-yard line or closer.

Kevin Harris pitches out to Mike Posey. GCHS rebounded from an 0-3 start this season to finish at 3-6 under first-year coach Nick Petrillo.

Warriors start climb with 'positive steps'

GCHS takes upturn under Petrillo

By Brian L. Jones
Correspondent

First-year coach Nick Petrillo would have preferred better records this season for his Granite City High varsity football team. The Warriors were 3-6 overall and tied Belleville East for fourth place in the eight-team Southwestern Conference at 3-4. But foundational goals were met as GCHS players tackled an introductory course in Petrillo's new offensive and defensive schemes.

The Warriors not only improved on their 2-7 record of '95, but canceled out the burden of a defeatist attitude from previous years.

"We think that with the feeling of winning and knowing what it takes to win, we'll be a little more competitive next year," said Petrillo, whose Warriors were at one time 3-1 after four conference games.

GCHS might have been in contention for a winning season had senior quarterback Kevin Harris not missed four starting games. (See WARRIORS, Page 3B)

Maroons spike Salem, capture sectional title

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

It took only 28 minutes for the Belleville West volleyball team to beat Salem in Thursday's Belleville East Class AA Sectional championship match, which was just fine with Maroons senior Lindsay Rust.

"This is nice," a smiling Rust said after West's 15-2, 15-4 victory at Belleville East. "Now I can go home and watch E.R."

The Maroons (34-4) advanced to play Triad on Saturday in the Granite City Super-Sectional. Salem ended its season at 26-7.

"We knew what we were up against," said Salem coach Suzanne Henry. "We knew they'd be a tough team to even score points off of."

"This is where our schedule hurts us. We're not used to playing teams like this." West, after being taken to three games by O'Fallon in the regional semifinals and by Belleville East in the regional finals, wasn't challenged in the sectional. The Maroons beat Marion 15-6, 15-4 on Tuesday.

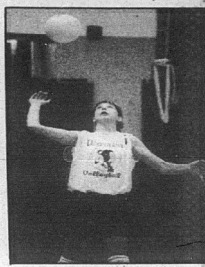

"I hope we learned something from the O'Fallon match," said West coach Charlie Rodman. "We won the first

Tigers' Allaria takes charge in playoffs

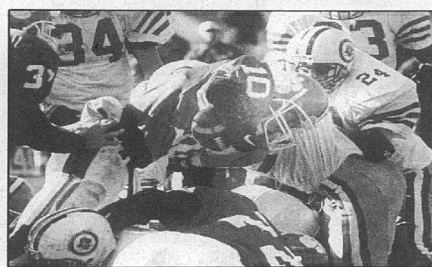

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Mark Allaria has not rolled up the numbers normally expected from the starting quarterback for the Edwardsville High football team. But what he has done the last two weeks has been amazing.

When Edwardsville starting quarterback Jim Dougherty went down with a shoulder injury in the Tigers' final regular-season game Oct. 25, coach Tim Dougherty turned to Allaria, a senior, to take over as the signal caller.

Allaria, the Illinois Journal-Cardinal Club Athlete of the Week, engineered two touchdown drives in the Tigers' final regular-season contest against Granite City.

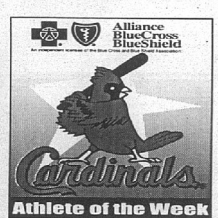

However, his real test came in the Tigers' first-round Class 5A playoff game against Ottawa Township on Nov. 2. Allaria engineered a game-tying touchdown with 44 seconds remaining and scored a TD in overtime to help Edwardsville earn a 14-13 victory. The Saturday's playoff game Tigers were 10-0 heading into against Woodstock.

Allaria did all this after taking limited snaps under center since the first practices of the school year.

"I think under the circumstances, what he did in Game 9 and the first playoff game is a lot to ask out of a human being," Dougherty said. "He by far exceeded expectations and all reality of what you could ask of a kid considering (See ALLARIA, Page 4B)

Strong cast set to lead BAC women

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

The Belleville Area College women's basketball team knows how to make the grade — on and off the court.

BAC is ranked 12th in the NJCAA Division I preseason poll and is also ranked 10th in the Academic Top 10 Team Honor Roll, compiled by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association.

"As far as the rankings go, the academic aspect means a lot more to me than the pre-season poll," said coach Shelly Ehrbridge, who also serves as BAC's assistant athletic director.

BAC is coming off a 25-5 season in which it ranked as high as No. 13 in the nation. The Dutchwomen, who were 14-0 at home, lost to John Logan in the regional championship game. Logan is rated third in the preseason poll. "This is the most talented squad that we've ever had, but it may not be reflected in our record," Ehrbridge said. "This is the hardest schedule we've ever had."

The Dutchwomen will play a total of nine games against six teams which either ranked in the top 30 in the preseason poll or received votes. But BAC enters the season with five returning players, including: — Marquesha Clark, a 5-4 guard from East St. Louis Senior High.

— LaToschia McIntyre, a 5-7 guard/forward from Louisville, Ky.

Kahoks top Normal in PK shootout

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

ST. CHARLES — Collinsville High backup keeper Matt Theis came up with one big save in the PK session Friday night and the Kahoks converted five shots to oust Normal U-High 2-1 in the quarterfinals of the Illinois state tournament.

The victory sent the Kahoks (17-5-2) to the state semifinals, where they were scheduled to play Chicago Foreman on Saturday morning at St. Charles High School.

"I'm happy right now. We'll look at our injuries, because we had some more injuries," Collinsville coach Ron Rowden said. "We do place, but now we have higher goals. We'll try to get them ready to go. We want to get into the finals."

After 100 minutes of soccer Friday, the teams were tied 1-1 to force the PK session. Todd Alhardt, Brent Cowin, Nick Redman, Brad Mann and Drew Estes all scored on PKs for Collinsville, while the Pioneers converted on their first three attempts and Theis stopped them on their fourth. Estes followed with the game-winner.

It was the second time in as many games that the Kahoks' season came down to PKs. Collinsville defeated Springfield 2-1 in the Granite City Super-Sectional last Tuesday to advance to the state tournament. The Kahoks made all five of their PKs in that contest as well.

"We have come through a very hard sectional and people think southern Illinois is, heck, all cornfields," Rowden said. "There's something about getting your physical fitness up for 80 minutes. We have been doing that 90 and 100 minutes with overtime. When we come into a game (See STATE, Page 3B)

Park District sponsors Christmas trip

The Granite City Park District will sponsor the annual one-day Christmas Trip on Friday, Dec. 13, to the Highland area. The trip will go on sale at 8 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, at the Wilson Park Ice Rink. Cost is $38 per person and includes lunch, tours and bus transportation. The motorcoach will leave Wilson Park at 11 a.m. on the day of the trip and return after 9 p.m.

The day will definitely have a few New Glarus, Wis., connections which is a favorite destination for Park District travelers. Highland is a unique community founded by Swiss pioneers that combines America's small town heritage with industry of the 20th century.

The day will begin with browsing and shopping in the many specialty shops around the Square. A step-on guide will meet the group at the Weinheimer Community Center and begin the tour at the famous Wick Organ Factory, maker of pipe organs. The next stop will be at the Latzer Homestead, the home of the founder of the Pet Milk Co. with that being followed by a visit to a dairy farm with a milking demonstration. Dinner will be at the popular "House of Plenty," a restored historical house known for good soups, sandwiches, and scrumptious desserts. After the meal will be a tour of the lights in the Highland area with a stop at "Christmas Wonderland" at the Faith Countryside Home that features trees decorated by the local merchants and groups in the town. After leaving Highland the bus will take the group to Breese, home of Deke, the busdriver. A tour will be made of the Christmas lights there and possibly other towns on the drive back to Granite City.

The last day for sign up will be Wednesday, Nov. 27. Residents of the Park District may sign up to four persons. Non-residents at the ice rink will be placed on a waiting list and those wishing to call in may be placed on the waiting list after 12 noon.

Eagles Aerie 1126 hold kick off dinner

Eagles Aerie 1126 held their Kick Off dinner on Oct. 24 at the Eagle Home. Chris and Mark Von Nida were in charge of the dinner. The Kick Off dinner is held every October and has been for the past 30 years. The funds are used for the Thanksgiving dinner for "shut-ins" or anyone who has no where else to go, and also for the Christmas baskets and Eagles' children Christmas party.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello was the guest speaker of the evening. He discussed Social Security and Medicare. He said that all must vote.

Other dignitaries present at the dinner were Alderman Foster Frederick, County Board member Mac Warfield, Mayor Ron Selph and his wife, Karen, Township Assessor Darlene Laub and her husband, Frank, State's Attorney William Haine, County Auditor Fred Bathon, Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry Briggs, and City Clerk Judy Whitaker. Also present were Aerie president Tim Venne and his wife, Jeanne, and Auxiliary president Susan Allen and her husband Darrel. Chairman Mark Von Nida presented a plaque to Costello to give to the Senior Citizen of the Year, Mack ElRoy of the Eagles Aerie 1126.
